Willoughby has a long and rich heritage of artistic endeavour that reflects the cultural diversity of the city.

Artists express their thoughts in a variety of ways. Their work, be it in written, verbal or graphic form, 'speaks' to us at many levels.

From the Dreaming, discovery, colonial settlement and federation until the present, the Artistic Voices exhibition showcases the very best of Willoughby's poets, writers, singers, dancers, playwrights, sculptors, painters, musicians, architects, theatrical performers, film, photographers, radio and television personalities.

In their unique way, Willoughby's artists reveal aspects of our heritage often forgotten.
