Ruth Faerber

RUTH FAERBER taught for many years at the Workshop Arts Centre in Willoughby. Her interest in the arts was sparked in her youth, encouraged by her teacher Gladys Gibbons to think and work creatively. She left school early to start classes with Peter Dodd's art school, to train as a commercial artist.

Ruth studied with Desiderius Orban. She was also taught by John Olsen and John Ogburn, who held weekly painting classes at the Orban school.

Many of Ruth's artworks are inspired by her travels
